

Whumfing in cooke city

Date

Mon, 02/19/2024 - 10:10

Activity

Skiing

While transitioning at the top of mineral mountain burn, a member of our party stepped away from our packed out transition spot and likely the deeper impact from his ski boots triggered the weak layer beneath us and created a massive whumf that propagated hundreds of feet and was strong enough to knock snow off of nearby trees. Nothing we observed slid but the collapse was extremely evident.

Region

Cooke City

Location (from list)

Mineral Mountain

Observer Name

Owen DeJohn